

Developer Group announces their expansion to the UK

September 10, 2015: Developer Group, a new dynamic Asian Developer with exciting development projects in Asia and a Japanese investors' promoted real estate company has announced its entry into the UK realty market with a focus on redevelopment of residential properties in London.

While elaborating on Developer Group's plans, Akinari Tokuyama, CIO/CFO of Developer Group said, "Developer Group is also now focusing on newer international markets and plans to launch residential projects in London by end of this year. In the initial phase, Developer Group will focus only on redevelopment projects but subsequently also intends to enter into development of green field projects. Developer Group will be launching funds for the UK realty market. In course of time, we will expand our footprint to other lucrative European markets, too. We shall strive to be the bridge between UK/ European business opportunities with other parts of the globe"

Developer Group is backed by leading Japanese corporates and institutions that have allied with industry professionals of the highest calibre with in-depth knowledge of customer insight, project assessment as well as risk management expertise. Earlier in November 2014, Tama Home Corporation from Japan had announced their joint venture with Developer Group. Tama Home, a leading Japanese realty company, brings efficient and high-quality methods of realty development to this partnership.